

Absolutely Effortless

Laughter

Book II

by Bijan

Copyright © 2008 by Effortless Prosperity

Published and distributed worldwide by:

Effortless Publishing & Design

P.O. Box 370703

Las Vegas, NV 89137

Phone: 702-735-6559

Toll Free: 800-437-7750

Fax: 702-254-0095

www.effortlessprosperity.com

All rights reserved. No part of this product may be reproduced by any mechanical, photographic or electronic process, nor may it be stored in a retrieval system, transmitted or copied for public or private use

Book design by Karen Silveroli

Edited by Karen Silveroli

TWO OR MORE PEOPLE WHO ARE VIGILANT FOR THE LIGHT, ARE MUCH MORE POWERFUL THAN HUNDREDS OF PEOPLE LIVING IN THE DARKNESS

Introduction

I truly feel that it is a gift to be alive. Many people only appreciate life when they are stricken with an incurable disease and are told they only have a few weeks left. Then they decide to experience life fully. I say you should live your whole life as if you have only one week to live! That means you must stay in the present, be joyous and notice everything.

I believe that whatever we give out will come back to us, and so it is with laughter. Laughter and joy are essential to our lives; key ingredients to remaining in the present. Without joy, relationships do not last, businesses fall apart, and we lose our vitality and health. And without plenty of laughter on a daily basis, life can become very boring and arduous indeed.

Studies from around the world have proven that laughter will strengthen our immune systems so we can feel and look better. My own study and experience have shown me that laughing with ourselves and listening to positive jokes is extremely life-affirming. Those jokes are the ones that cause our energy to soar.

It is important to me not to laugh at someone else's expense. When we do that, we see others as less than us. Therefore, out of thousands and thousands of jokes that I have heard over the years, I've only included ones that do not make our brothers and sisters wrong.

And here's another great thing – you never have to judge or evaluate whether or not it is appropriate to tell one of my jokes. They are all rated "G" for general audiences.

I would like to see everyone experience true peace for the first time. When we learn to appreciate and enjoy our precious lives while respecting others as well – then and only then will this planet see complete peace.

My wonderful brothers and sisters, come and join me for a happy and joyful time. Let go of all anger, grievances, resentment, jealousy, shame, blame and control – all the darkness – and be happy.

How and When to Read This Book

Absolutely Effortless Laughter II is not a book to be read in one sitting. This is a book that has been designed to bring a joyous smile to your face every day of the year. And although you can read Absolutely Effortless Laughter II on any occasion, you will have the best results if you read a joke or two first thing in the morning.

In addition to your morning joke, you MUST read some jokes from this book:

- ☺ before going to a job interview
- ☺ before interviewing some
- ☺ before starting a new job
- ☺ before making a telemarketing call
- ☺ before taking an exam
- ☺ before walking into a business meeting
- ☺ before seeing your attorney
- ☺ before seeing your doctor or dentist
- ☺ before meeting your ex-in-laws
- ☺ before saying anything to your wife after catching her being unfaithful
- ☺ before saying anything to your husband after catching him being unfaithful
- ☺ before seeing your kid's tattoos
- ☺ before riding in a New York City taxi
- ☺ before going on a two-week vacation with six kids in a motor-home

☺ when the police pull you over on the highway

Write a few favorite jokes on a piece of paper to carry with you or post at your desk. Use this as a stress-reliever during your day. Every time you read one of your favorite jokes, it will bring the smile back to your face. As you see your friends, it is highly recommended that you share your joy and laughter with them as well.

We know as you read and share these jokes every day with your friends and loved ones, very soon you will have accumulated many great jokes that you can tell everywhere. And we numbered them so sharing would be effortless. When you share jokes with your friends and loved one who have Absolutely Effortless Laughter II, you can just give them the number of the joke.

I hope these jokes bring you as much joy and laughter as they have brought me.

The Jokes

Always remember – joy is the unmistakable presence of God in the world.

Laugh, so the world can laugh with you!

366. Teacher: “Why don’t you brush your teeth? I can see what you had for breakfast this morning.”

Student: “What did I have?”

Teacher: “Eggs!”

Student: “You’re wrong! That was yesterday!”

367. Husband: “We’ve been married for two years and haven’t agreed on one thing.”

Wife: “You’re wrong again—it’s been three years.”

368. I was thinking about how people seem to read the Bible a whole lot more as they get older. Then it dawned on me, they were cramming for their finals.

369. Red: “There’s a man outside with a wooden leg named Tommy.”

Jed: “What’s the name of his other leg?”

370. We have a strange and wonderful relationship—he’s strange and I’m wonderful.

371. A policeman stopped a driver who had a monkey in her car. “Where you going with that monkey?” the policeman asked.

“I’m taking him to the zoo, officer,” she answered.

“Good, get going then” the policeman said.

Two hours later he caught her again with the same monkey in the car. “Didn’t you tell me you were taking that monkey to the zoo?” he demanded. “I did,” the lady answered. “Now I’m taking him to the park.”

372. Wife: “This article on overpopulation says that somewhere in the world there is a woman having a baby every three seconds.”

Husband: “I think they ought to find that woman and stop her.”

373. A sales rep, an administration clerk, and a manager are walking to lunch when they find an antique oil lamp. They rub it and a genie comes out.

“I’ll grant each of you just one wish,” the genie says.

“Me first! Me first!” exclaims the clerk, “I want to be in the Bahamas, driving a speedboat, without a care in the world.” And poof! The clerk is gone.

“Me next! Me next!” the sales rep cries. “I want to be in Hawaii, relaxing on the beach with my personal masseuse, an endless supply of Pina Colodas and the love of my life.” And poof! The sales rep is gone.

“Okay, you’re up,” the Genie tells the manager.

“I want those two back in the office after lunch!”

Moral: Always let your boss have the first say.

374. A crow was sitting on a tree, doing nothing all day. After watching him for a while a rabbit asked him, “Can I sit like you and do nothing all day long?”

The crow answered: “Sure, why not.” So, the rabbit sat down on the ground below the crow to rest. Suddenly, a fox jumped on the rabbit and ate it.

Moral: To be sitting and doing nothing, you must be sitting very high up.

375. A woman walked into the kitchen to find her husband stalking around with a fly swatter. “What are you doing?” she asked.

“Hunting flies,” he responded.

“Oh. Killing any?” she asked.

“Yep, three males and two females,” he replied.

Intrigued, she asked, “How can you tell?”

He responded, “Three were on a beer can, and two were on the phone.”

376. You can always tell when a man is elegant and well-informed. His views are pretty much like your own.

377. My wife was telling me I had “Attention Deficit Disorder, Blah, blah, blah . . .” I didn’t pay attention to the rest.

378. Kathy: “Does your husband have an ulcer?”

Michelle: “No, but he’s a carrier.”

379. If you have lots of kids and get headaches, do what it says on the aspirin bottle: Take two and keep away from children.

380. Myrlene: “He’s a C.P.N.”

Sharon: “You mean C.P.A.—Certified Public Accountant.”

Myrlene: “No, C.P.N. Constant Pain in Neck.”

381. A bad saxophone is like a lawsuit—everyone is happy when the case is closed.

382. A seven-year-old kid said to his dad, “When I grow up I want to be a musician.”

“I’m sorry, son,” the father said, “you can’t have it both ways.”

383. “Miss Jackson, I ain’t got no crayons!”

“Young man, you mean I don’t have any crayons. You don’t have any crayons. We don’t have any crayons. They don’t have any crayons. Do you see what I am getting at?”

“Yes, Miss Jackson...but what happened to all those crayons?”

384. A husband and his wife were driving home one night and ran into a bridge abutment and both were killed. They arrived in the heaven and found it was a beautiful golf course with a lovely clubhouse and fabulous green. It was free, and only for them!

As they were teeing off on the first hole, the husband seemed distracted. "Honey, what's wrong?" she asked. "You know if it hadn't been for your stupid oat bran, we could have been here years ago!"

385. Advertising manager: "Where did you get this wonderful follow-up system? It would drag money out of anyone."
Assistant: "I'll say it would! It's compiled from the letters my son wrote me from college."

386. "Dad, I'm going to a party. Would you do my homework for me?"

"I'm sorry, kid, but it just wouldn't be right."

"Well, maybe not...but give it a try anyway!"

387. Katherine: "Did anyone around here lose a roll of bills with a rubber band?"

Billy: "Yes, I did."

Katherine: "Well, I've found the rubber band."

388. Q: What has four legs and one arm?

A: A rottweiler .

389. Lead me not into temptation...I can find the way myself.

390. Sportsman: “Is there much good hunting in these parts?”

Native: “Sure, there’s plenty of hunting but very little finding.”

391. Melinda: “Aunt Martha, why is it you never got married?”

Aunt Martha: “Honey, I’ve got a parrot that drops things on the floor, a dog that growls, a cat that stays out late, and a chimney that smokes. Why do I need a husband?”

392. Carol: “Did you know that women are smarter than men?”

Jack: “No I didn’t.”

Carol: “See what I mean?”

393. Tom: “Honey, let’s not fight anymore about this. I decided I agree with you.”

Ann: “Oh, yeah? Well...I’ve changed my mind!”

394. Cheerleader: “I wouldn’t go out with you in a million years.”

Nerd: "I've got a brand-new Porsche convertible and dinner reservations at Chez Chic."

Cheerleader: "My, how time flies."

395. Tom: "I proposed to you last night, but I've forgotten whether you said yes or no."

Sherry: "Oh, thank goodness! I knew I turned somebody down last night, but I just couldn't remember who it was."

396. Sam: "Marry me, darling. I know I haven't got lots of money like my friend James, or a hot film career like James. I know I don't have James' good looks, his youth, terrific sense of humor, or muscles, but I am loyal and true and I love you!"

Tina: "I love you too, honey...but first, tell me more about James."

397. Lady: "You should be ashamed to ask for handouts in this neighborhood."

Tramp: "Don't apologize for it, ma'am. I've seen worse."

398. "Pardon me," said the transatlantic traveler to his neighbor, "but I couldn't help noticing the large beautiful diamond you're wearing on your finger."

“Thank you,” replied the expensively dressed young lady next to him. “It’s a Johnson diamond. You may have heard of it—it comes with a curse.”

“What curse?” the traveler asked.

The woman sighed. “Mr. Johnson.”

399. Tonia: “Who was that gorgeous man I saw you kiss last night?”

Kelly: “What time was it?”

400. What did the mommy train said to her baby at the dinner table?

“Chew, chew...”

401. Computer teacher: “Why did you bring cheese to class?”

Little boy: “Because you told me I’m going to work with the mouse today!”

402. Captain Kirk: “What’s wrong with the engine of the Enterprise? It keeps knocking.”

Mr. Scott: “I need to change the Spock plugs, Captain.”

403. Jack: “I’d better stop taking those pep pills.”

John: “Why do you say that?”

Jack: "Last night I threaded my wife's sewing machine."

John: "So what? I can do that."

Jack: "While it's running?"

404. Kathy: "My cat is so smart, he has his own computer."

Larry: "Does he use it much?"

Kathy: "Yes. He especially loves playing with the mouse."

405. Office Manager: "I'm calling to complain about that Titanic computer you just installed here today!"

Computer salesman: "I don't know what you mean—why are you calling it the Titanic?"

Office Manager: "Because it just went down!"

406. Why did the android go to the psychologist?

He thought he was having a mental breakdown.

407. "I noticed the Browns seem to get along much better these days."

"Yes ever since he went home this summer and saw the girl he was in love with fifteen years ago."

408. "Which one of those men is the bridegroom?"

"The anxious-looking one - the cheerful one is the bride's father!"

409. “Dad,” he said, “I’ve got a lot of things I want to talk to you about.”

“Good,” said Dad, “I’m glad to hear it. Usually you want to talk to me about a lot of things you haven’t got.”

410. Young man: “May I ask you the secret of your success?”

Executive: “There is no easy secret. You just jump at opportunity.”

Young man: “But how can I tell when my opportunity comes?”

Executive: “You can’t—you have to keep on jumping.”

411. “Gee, you’re a great dancer, did you take dancing lessons?”

“No, but I took wrestling lessons.”

412. “Would you call for help if I tried to kiss you?”

“Why? Do you need help?”

413. Wife (to late-returning husband): “Is that you Bill?”

Bill: “It had better be.”

414. A spaceship from another planet landed right in the middle of the Los Angeles Marathon. An alien popped out of the spaceship and shouted to a runner going by,

“Take me to your leader!”

Without slowing down, the runner said, “I don’t know who he is, but he’s about three miles ahead of me...”

415. Tom: “I’m going to New York to continue with my trumpet lessons.”

Kim: “Sounds very expensive! Where did you get the money?”

Tom: “All the neighbors chipped in.”

416. Jim: “Yuck, your breath smells like garbage.”

Bill: “I had junk food for lunch!”

417. Samantha: “Hasn’t Harvey ever married?”

Joe: “No, and I don’t think he intends to, because he’s studying for a bachelor’s degree.”

418. The brain is a powerful organ! It starts working the moment you get up in the morning and does not stop until you get to the office.

419. Tom: “I told my wife I would shoot any man who had flirted with her at the beach.”

Joe: “What did she say?”

Tom: "She told me to bring a machinegun."

420. Jay: "I wonder if that fat old girl over there is really trying to flirt with me."

Tully: "I can find out for you—that's my wife!"

421. Eloping Bride: "Here's a telegram from Papa!"

Bridegroom (eagerly): "What does he say?"

Bride: "He says, 'Do not come home and all will be forgiven.'"

422. "Jacob, dear, my dance class is giving a recital. What will people say when they see me wearing tights?"

"They'll probably say I married you for your money."

423. Wife (at dance): "This is the twelfth time you've been to the bar. What will people think?"

Husband: "Oh, it's all right. I tell everybody I'm getting something for you."

424. "Does your hubby expect you to obey him?"

"Oh no, dear. You see, he's been married before."

425. Barbara: "John, I believe that sheep are the stupidest creatures living."

John (absent-mindedly): “Yes, my lamb.”

426. “My husband won a thousand dollars at poker the other night and he split with me.”

“He gave you half?”

“No, he took his thousand and left.”

427. A boy scout was out trying to raise funds for his troop by collecting bottles and cans. He went to one house and asked the lady if she had any old beer bottles.

“Do I look like the kind of person who would drink beer?” the self-righteous woman retorted.

“Pardon me,” the Boy Scout apologized. “Do you have any old prune juice bottles?”

428. Wife: “I’ve lost quite a lot of weight.”

Husband: “I don’t see it.”

Wife: “Sure you don’t. I’ve lost it.”

429. “But, Madam, you have no claim. Your husband did not insure his life; he took out a policy against fire!”

“That’s my claim! He’s been cremated!”

430. Some people believe everything you tell them—especially if you whisper it.

431. Wife (referring to guest): “He’s a most attractive man; is he married?”

Husband: “I don’t know. He’s the reserved type - he keeps all his troubles to himself!”

432. Wife: “You never praise me to anyone.”

Husband: “I don’t, eh? You should have heard me describe you when I was trying to hire a maid!”

433. “So you wish to open a joint account with your husband. What kind?”

“Oh, just a deposit account for him—checks for me.”

434. Daughter: “But Dad, don’t you believe that two can live as cheaply as one?”

Father: “I certainly do. Right now your mother and I are living as cheaply as you.”

435. First husband: “Last night my wife dreamed she was married to a millionaire.”

Second husband: “You’re lucky. My wife dreams that in the daytime.”

436. Aunt Terrie: “Sakes alive! I don’t believe no woman could ever have been so fat.”

Uncle Bob: “What y’ readin’ now, Terrie?”

Aunt Terrie: “Why, this paper tells about an Englishwoman that lost two thousand pounds!”

437. When I was a bartender this guy told me, “Every body should believe in something. I believe I’ll have another drink!”

438. Interviewer: “What kind of work history do you have?”
Applicant: “I’ve been fired from every job I’ve ever had.”
Interviewer: “That isn’t really anything positive.”
Applicant: “Hey, I think it shows I’m not a quitter!”

439. Customer: “Waiter, do you serve crabs here?”
Waiter: “We’ll serve anyone. Please sit down!”

440. Critic #1: “I had to leave the new play early. Did it have a happy ending?”
Critic #2: “I’ll say! We were all glad when it was over.”

441. Duke: “I’m a stuntman. I get paid to fall down the stairs and trip over things.”
Little girl: “Well, what do you know! All these years my clumsy brother has been performing for free.”

442. Wife: “Scientists claim that the average person speaks about 10,000 words per day.”

Husband: “Yes, Dear, but remember you are far above average.”

443. Sign in the window of a health food restaurant: All you should eat $3.50.

444. Husband: “Great news, Darling! I’ve finally saved enough money for us to go to Paris this year!”

Wife: “How wonderful! When are we leaving?”

Husband: “As soon as you’ve saved enough money for the return trip!”

445. “I’m ashamed of the way we live,” the young wife said to her lazy husband who refused to find a job. “My father pays our rent. My mother buys all of our food. My sister buys our clothes. My aunt bought us a car. I’m just so ashamed.”

The husband rolled over on the couch. “You should be ashamed,” he agreed. “Those two worthless brothers of yours never give us a cent.”

446. Man: “I’m a gentleman with a disposable income.”

Woman: “So why do you look so needy?”

Man: “My income has already been entirely disposed of.”

447. Why did the banana go out with the prune?
He couldn't find a date.

448. Thief (waving a gun): "Hand over your wallet!"
Scrooge: "Hmmm..."
Thief: "What's taking you so long? Your money or your life!"
Scrooge: "I'm thinking it over."

449. Two cannibals were eating a clown when one said, "Does this taste funny to you?"

450. What were the last words spoken at the Last Supper?
"Everyone who wants to be in the picture, get on this side of the table."

451. Timmy: "Mom, the new baby looks just like Rover."
Mom: "Timmy! Don't say such things!"
Timmy: "Its okay, Mom. Rover can't hear me."

452. Samantha: "I'm worried about my son-in-law. He doesn't know how to drink and he doesn't know how to play cards."
Kelly: "He sounds like a good man to me. Why are you worried?"

Samantha: “Because he drinks and plays cards!”

453. Mrs. Stefan: “I’m descended from a very long line...”

Mrs. Johnson: “Yes, and your mother should never have listened to it.”

454. Fran encountered a friend walking down the street with her three grandchildren. She stopped to admire them.

“My, what beautiful grandchildren!” Fran said.

“This is nothing,” replied the proud grandmother. “You should see their pictures!”

455. Those seriously hot summer days in Las Vegas bring back memories of my childhood summers. I remember that sizzling sound, and delicious smell of meat cooking when my wet thighs hit the car seat.

456. Jason: “My shrink just told me I don’t have an inferiority complex.”

Greg: “That sounds like good news to me.”

Jason: “No, he said I really am inferior.”

457. Terry: “My twenty-year-old cousin just married an eighty-year-old billionaire, and now he’s deathly ill.”

Bob: “Maybe you should send her a get-will-quick card.”

458. Mother: “Where did you get that ten-dollar bill?”
Boy: “I found it at the store.”
Mother: “Are you sure it was lost?”
Boy: “Absolutely. I saw a guy looking all over for it.”

459. Wife: “Why do you go on the balcony when I sing? Don’t you like to hear me?”
Husband: “I want the neighbors to see I’m not beating my wife.”

460. Dora: “I won a bundle at the track on Slowpoke!”
Nora: “Slowpoke? Why, he came in last in the 6th!”
Dora: “Yeah, but he was so slow he came in first in the 7th!”

461. Matt: “This canyon was discovered by football fans.”
Pat: “How do you know that?”
Matt: “They named it Touchdown Pass.”

462. Two men went bear hunting. While one stayed in the cabin, the other went looking for a bear. He soon found a huge one, shot at it, but only wounded it. The enraged bear charged toward him, and he started running for the cabin as fast as he could.
The man ran as fast as he could, but the bear was just a little faster and gained on him with every step. Just as he reached the open cabin door, he tripped and fell flat. Too close behind to stop, the bear tripped over him and went rolling into the cabin.

The man jumped up, closed the cabin door, and yelled to his friend inside, "You skin this one while I get the next one!"

463. Fisherman: "Hey, Pal! You've been standing there watching me fish for three hours! Why don't you get a rod and reel and do some fishing yourself?"

Onlooker: "No thanks. I don't have the patience for it."

464. Jed and Zeke went to the theater to see a movie about horse racing. "I'll bet you ten bucks that the long shot, number eight, wins the big race," Jed said to Zeke. Zeke accepted the wager.

The movie continued and number eight won the race.

"Zeke, I can't take your money," Jed said. "I saw this movie yesterday."

"That's okay," replied Zeke, handing over the cash. "So did I, but I just couldn't believe number eight could win two days in a row."

465. Rick: "I watched a prize fight last night and the champ got really clobbered."

Nick: "Wow! I'll bet he was a sore loser."

466. A man was watching a fisherman at work. The fisherman caught a giant trout but threw it back into the river. Next the fisherman hooked a huge pike and threw it back. Finally the fisherman caught a little bass. He smiled and put the little bass in his bag.

“Hey!” yelled the guy who was watching. “Why did you throw back a giant trout and a huge pike and then keep the little bass?”

“Small frying pan,” the fisherman yelled back.

467. Bert: “Boy, this ice fishing is a drag! I’m freezing, we haven’t caught a thing all day, and those guys over there are hauling in one fish after another.”

Ernie: “Oh, sure, it’s not hard to catch fish if you cheat! Look, they cut a hole in the ice.”

468. Fred: “I’m going on a diet to improve my golf game.”

Barney: “How will losing weight help your game?”

Fred: “Because right now I can’t see the ball if I put it where I can hit it, and I can’t hit it if I put it where I can see it!”

469. Golfer: “You’re such a lousy caddy! When we get back to the clubhouse I’m going to see to it that you get fired!”

Caddy: "That's okay with me. By the time we get back to the clubhouse I'll be old enough to get a regular job."

470. Tom: "Why am I so lucky at cards and so unlucky at the track?"

John: "Probably because they won't let you shuffle the horses."

471. Baseball coach: "My god, Kirby, put some clothes on! You can't play center field stark naked!"

Kirby: "Center field? I thought you said centerfold!"

472. New York Native: "How was your trip to New York City?"

Visitor: "Terrible! We circled for hours!"

New York Native: "Yes, the airports are a problem..."

Visitor: "But we were in a car!"

473. John: "Why do you keep singing the same song over and over again?"

Harry: "The melody haunts me."

John: "That's because you're murdering it."

474. Club manager: "Your last joke was so bad it actually put the audience to sleep. What do you plan to do about it?"

Comedian: "Copyright it and sell it as the cure for insomnia."

475. Jenny: "Work is the magic word around our house."

Bob: "What do you mean?"

Jenny: "When I say 'work' my husband disappears."

476. Anne: "All my husband does is sit and watch TV."

Jill: "Mine too, but at least now he gets a little more exercise."

Anne: "How did you manage that?"

Jill: "I hid the remote."

477. Brandon: "My wife says if I don't give up golf she'll divorce me."

Greg: "That's dreadful!"

Brandon: "Yes, I'll miss her."

478. Amanda: "I can't get a baby-sitter who actually pays attention to the kids!"

Ashley: "Oh, I solved that problem: I just put the baby on top of the TV!"

479. Mother: "Josh, I'm tired of cleaning up your room. I've decided to charge you 10 cents every time I have to pick something up off the floor. So far, you owe me two dollars.”

Josh: “Here it is, Mom, and keep up the good work!”

480. Grace: “How’s your son? He was such an unusual child.”

Martha: “Dayton’s at Harvard.”

Grace: “Really! What’s he studying?”

Martha: “Oh, he’s not studying anything. They’re studying him!”

481. Bob: “You’re looking upset.”

Jacob: “My son took his driver’s test yesterday. He stopped on a dime!”

Bob: “Sounds like he passed with flying colors!”

Jacob: “Not exactly. The dime was in a pedestrian’s pocket.”

482. Did you hear the one about the man who quit the CIA to become a bishop?

Now all of his files are marked “Sacred” and “Top Sacred.”

483. A lady went into a pet shop. “I’d like to buy two yellow canaries,” she told the owner.

“We don’t have any canaries, but we have these,” the owner replied. He showed the lady some pale green parakeets.

“That’s not really what I’m looking for,” the lady stated.
The owner smiled. “Just think of them as yellow canaries that aren’t quite ripe yet.”

484. Psychologist: “I think I know what your problem is. You need to be more assertive. Do you ever have trouble making decisions?”

Patient: “Well, yes...and no.”

485. Did you hear the one about the baseball umpire who became a bouncer at the local bar? He was especially good at throwing people out.

486. “Jenna, you looked stressed out,” said Sandra. “What’s wrong?”

Jenna sighed. “This morning I woke up late and had to run downstairs to make breakfast. Then the dog got loose and I had to run after him. The kids forgot their lunch and I had to run after the school bus. Then I had to run to the train station.”

Sandra shook her head. “You need a hobby to relax you,” she said. “Have you ever tried jogging?”

487. Bridget: “Boy, is Danny ever absentminded!”

Flora: “How absentminded is he?”

Bridget: “Danny is so absentminded, he stood in front of the mirror for two hours yesterday trying to remember where he had seen himself before.”

488. TJ: “Ha! That’s funny!”

Mickey: “What is?”

TJ: “Oh, I was just thinking ...”

Mickey: “You’re right—that is funny!”

489. Customer (at a roadside stand): “Excuse me, but is your milk fresh?”

Farmer: “I’ll say it’s fresh.”

Customer: “How fresh is it?”

Farmer: “Three hours ago, it was grass.”

490. Boy: “My dog eats fish.”

Girl: “What kind of dog is he?”

Boy: “A Saint Bernard.”

Girl: “And what kind of fish does he like?”

Boy: “Holy mackerels.”

491. Doctor: “This is a dangerous operation, but I think we can do it.”

Patient: “What are my chances of making it?”

Doctor: “Well, they say nine out of ten die. But that’s okay. You’re number 10!”

492. Worker on payday: “I don’t know why the company calls this a week’s wages.”

Paymaster: “What do you mean?”

Worker on payday: “It only takes one day to spend it.”

493. Employer: “We want a responsible man for this job.”

Applicant: “Well, I guess I’m your man. In all my other jobs, whenever anything went wrong, they told me I was responsible.”

494. Father: “They see you when you’re sleeping. They know when you’re awake. They know if you’ve been bad or good—”

Mother: “Are you telling junior about Santa’s elves?”

Father: “No. I’m telling him about the CIA and FBI.”

495. Julia: “Did you hear about Fred? He was arrested for doing his Christmas shopping early.”

Kristen: “What do you mean? How early?”

Madge: “...Before the store opened.”

496. A guy stood over his tee shot for a long time, looking up, looking down, and measuring the distance, figuring the wind direction and speed. All this was driving his golfing partner nuts.

Finally his exasperated partner said, “Just hit the stupid ball!”

The guy answered, “My wife is up there watching me from the clubhouse. I want to make this a perfect shot.”

“Forget it,” said the partner. “There’s no way you can hit her from here.”

497. Some guests were at a Washington party. “Have you heard the latest dumb White House employee joke?” One guest asked another.

“No,” replied the second guest. “But I must warn you, I worked at the White House.”

“That’s okay,” said the first guest, “I’ll tell the joke very slowly.”

498. Ray: “A fool and his money are soon parted.”

Jay: “How did the fool get his money in the first place?”

499. A diner was agitated that the waiter didn’t bring him a spoon with his coffee.

“This coffee,” he said loud enough for most of the other patrons to hear “is going to be pretty hot to stir with my fingers.”

The waiter reddened, made a hasty retreat to the kitchen, and returned shortly with another cup of coffee.

“Don’t worry, sir, he beamed. “This one isn’t so hot!”

500. Little girl: “Daddy, do all fairy tales begin with, “Once upon a time...?”

Father: “No, there’s a whole series of fairy tales that begin with ‘If elected, I promise...’”

501. A man walked into a restaurant with a full-grown ostrich behind him and the two sat at a table. The waitress came over to take their order. “I’ll have a hamburger, fries and a coke,” the man said. He turned to the ostrich. “What’ll you have?”

“I’ll have the same,” said the ostrich.

A short time later the waitress returned with the order.

“That will be $6.40 please,” she said, as she handed the man the bill. The man reached into his pocket and pulled out exact change.

The same thing happened the next day and the next and the next, until the man and his ostrich became a familiar sight. Late one evening, the two entered and sat at their regular booth. “The usual?” asked the waitress.

“No,” the man replied, “this is Friday night, so I’ll have a steak, baked potato and salad.”

“Same for me,” said the ostrich.

A short time later, the waitress comes with the order and says, “That’ll be $12.62.” Once again the man pulled exact change out of his pocket and placed it on the table. The waitress couldn’t hold back her curiosity any longer.

“Excuse me, Sir, can you tell me how you manage to come up with the exact change right out of your pocket every time?”

“Well,” said the man, “several years ago I was cleaning the attic and I found an old lamp. When I rubbed it a genie appeared and offered me two wishes. My first wish was that whenever I had to pay for anything, I would just put my hand in my pocket and the right amount of money would always be there.”

“That’s brilliant!” exclaimed the waitress. “Most people would wish for a million dollars or something, but you’ll always be as rich as you want for as long as you live!”

“That’s right!” the man nodded. “Whether it’s a gallon of milk or a Rolls Royce, the exact amount of money is always there.”

“One other thing—what’s with the ostrich?”

The man sighed sadly. “My second wish was for a tall bird with long legs who agrees with everything I say!”

502. One day a mailman was greeted by a boy and a huge dog.

The mailman said to the boy, “Does your dog bite?”

“No,” replied the boy.

Just then the dog lunged forward and bit the mailman.

“Hey,” he yelled, “I thought your dog didn’t bite!”

“He doesn’t,” reply the boy, “but this isn’t my dog!”

503. While in flight, an airplane catches fire. On board are five people—the president, the pilot, the smartest man in the world, a priest, and a kid—and four parachutes. The president takes a parachute and jumps because he has to run the country. The pilot takes a parachute and jumps because he has to fly the President's plane. The smartest man takes a parachute and jumps because he has to help answer all the questions in the world.

The priest says to the kid, "You can use my parachute, I've lived my life."

The kid says, "We can both jump. The smartest man in the world took my backpack!"

504. A friend of mine called up the Home Shopping Network. When the operator asked, "Can I help you?" he said, "No, I'm just looking."

505. I haven't slept for four days because that would be too long for me.

506. Tom: "I feel terrible."

Sally: "You should visit my doctor—he gives discounts."

Tom: "I can't believe that."

Sally: "It's true. When I had double pneumonia, he only charged me for one."

507. "Your methods of farming are out-of-date," said an agricultural student to an old farmer. "I'd be surprised if you get eight pounds of oranges off that tree."

"So would I," said the old farmer. "That's a pear tree."

508. Father: “Operator, I’ve been trying to reach my home for an hour and the line is busy. Could you please cut in on the line?”

Operator: “I’m sorry, sir. We can only cut in when it’s a case of life or death.”

Father: “Well, I can tell you this much—if it’s my teenage daughter on the phone, there’s going to be a murder!”

509. Jim: “Why is your brother standing in front of the mirror with his eyes closed?”

Tim: “Oh, he just wants to see how he looks when he’s sleeping.”

510. Kim: “You really should watch your drinking.”

Herb: “Oh, I do, I do. I only go where there is a mirror behind the bar.”

511. Jim: “I quit smoking cold turkey.”

Larry: “That must’ve been tough.”

Jim: “Not as tough as keeping that turkey lit.”

512. Nancy: “I’m sending a cheery note to my mother.”

Karen: “But that envelope is empty!”

Nancy: “Sure...but my mother always told me no news is good news.”

513. George: "Ouch, a bee stung me on the finger!"
Sam: "Which one?"
George: "How can I tell? All bees look alike."

514. Mr. White: "Why, when I first came to this city, I was jobless, penniless, and without a shred of clothing."
Interviewer: "You mean..."
Mr. White: "That's right, I was born here."

515. Why did the silly person write "TGIF" on each of her shoes?
To help her remember, "Toes go in first."

516. Bruce: "Did I spend $200 here last night?"
Bartender: "You sure did."
Bruce: "Thank God—that's a relief. I thought I'd lost it."

517. Tommy: "Mom, I just went through all of volume M of the encyclopedia."
Mom: "That is quite an accomplishment. What have you learned from it?"
Tommy: "Never hide a $100 bill in a big book without remembering the page number."

518. Patient: “Doctor, I must be paranoid. I think everyone tries to take advantage of me.”

Psychiatrist: “That’s silly. It’s a perfectly normal feeling.”

Patient: “Is it really? Thanks for your help, doctor. How much do I owe you?”

Psychiatrist: “How much do you have?”

519. Movie star: “Just look at these photos of me—they’re terrible! Last time I posed for you the pictures were so much better!”

Photographer: “Yes, but I was fifteen years younger then.”

520. Ranch visitor: “This is the biggest ranch I’ve ever seen. How many head of cattle have you got here?”

Rancher: “Can’t tell you. They’re facing the wrong way.”

521. Diner: “Waiter, your menu plainly states ‘country fresh eggs.’ Well, let me tell you, Mister, these eggs are not so fresh, and I would like to hear what country they are from?”

Waiter: “They’re from the old country.”

522. Waiter: “Madam all the food we serve is a-la-carte.”

Diner: “Than just wheel it in, Sonny.”

523. Waiter: “What’ll it be?”

Diner: "Your fish special, and few kind words."
Waiter: "Here is the fish special, and here are the kind words: 'Don't eat it!'"

524. Sandy: "I found the first diet that really works for me!"
Karen: "What is it?"
Sandy: "You're allowed to eat all the bugs and insects you want."
Karen: "Yuck! I wouldn't eat any bugs or insects."
Sandy: "See, that's why it really works!"

525. Diner: "This tea tastes like turpentine."
Waiter: "Then it must be the coffee. Our tea tastes like dishwater."

526. Waiter: "Would you care for red or white wine?"
Diner: "I don't care. I'm color blind."

527. Diner: "Waiter, why are you staring at my vegetables?"
Waiter: "Sir, you said, 'Check peas.'"
Diner: "No, I said, 'Check please.'"

528. The unsuccessful actor requested in his will that his body be cremated and twenty percent of his ashes thrown in his agent's face.

529. When Tom was a little boy, he took fiddle lessons. One day while he was practicing, scraping dismally back and forth with his bow, his dog started howling. Finally his sister Jan, who was trying to do her homework, stuck her head in to his room and said. “Geez, Tom,” she complained. “Can’t you play something the dog doesn’t know?”

530. A little grandmother was watching her grandson playing on the beach when a huge wave came and swept him out to sea. “Please God,” she pleaded, “Save my only grandson, I beg of you and bring him back safe!” Just then, a big wave came and washed the boy back onto the beach, good as new. She looked up disgustedly and said, “He had a hat!”

531. During an army war game, a commanding officer’s jeep got stuck in the mud. The C.O. saw some enlisted men lounging nearby and asked them to help him to get unstuck. “Sorry, Sir,” said one of the loafers, “but we’ve been classified dead and the umpire said we couldn’t contribute in any way.” The C.O. turned to his driver and said, “Go drag a couple of those dead bodies over there and throw them under the wheels to give us some traction.”

532. Three out of four doctors recommend another doctor.

533. People who think they know everything can be very irritating to those of us who do.

534. I told my brother to take up a sport, so he took up bird-watching. He's very serious about it. He bought binoculars, and a bird.

535. A man answered his doorbell and a friend walked in, followed by a very large dog. As they began talking, the dog knocked over the lamp, jumped up on the sofa with his muddy feet and began chewing on one of the pillows. The outraged householder, unable to contain himself any longer, burst out, "Don't you think you should train your dog better?"

"My dog?" exclaimed the friend. "All this time I thought it was your dog!"

536: Warning to all personnel: Firing will continue until morale improves.

537. Tony and John met on the street corner. When Tony said he sure was glad to see his friend, John answered, “How can you see me when I’m not even here?”

“What do you mean,” asked Tony, bewildered.

“I’m not here, and I bet you $20 that I can prove it,” John boasted.

“You’re going to bet me $20 that you’re not here?” Tony asked. “Okay, it’s a bet. Go head and prove it.”

“Am I in Chicago?” asked Tony.

“Nope.”

“Am I in New York?”

“Nope”

“Well, if I’m not in Chicago or New York, that means I must be somewhere else, right?”

“That’s right,” Tony said.

“Well,” John said smiling, “If I’m somewhere else, I can’t be here. I’ll take that $20 now.”

“Sorry, John,” Tony laughed. “How can I give you the money if you’re not here?”

538. A man was taken to court for stealing an item from a store. The man said to the judge, “Your Honor, I am a born-again Christian. I have become a new man. But I have an old nature also. It was not the new man who did wrong—it was the old me.”

The judge responded, “Since it was the old you who broke the law, we will sentence him to 90 days in jail. And since the new you was only an accomplice in the theft, we will give you only 30 days. Therefore, I sentence you both to 120 days in jail.”

539. Save a little money each month and at the end of a year, you'll be surprise how little you saved.

540. Guidance counselor: “If Jimmy becomes a cab driver after he leaves school he'll be rich.”

Parent: “Why do you think that?”

Guidance counselor: “Because he can't find the shortest distance between two points.”

541. Johnny: “Why don't you like Tammy? She never says anything bad about other people.”

Carol: “Only because she's too busy talking about herself.”

542. An American was visiting Oxford University for the first time, and stopped a passing Oxford don to ask a question. “Excuse me,” said the American. “Can you tell me if that's Trinity College I am looking at?”

“You are probably unaware,” sneered the don, “that you have just ended your sentence with a preposition. You may wish to rephrase your question.”

The American began again. “Can you tell me if that's Trinity College I'm looking at, you jerk?”

543. Actress: “Darling I read your book, and it was simply divine. Do tell me who wrote it for you!”

Authoress: “I am so delighted you enjoyed it. Do tell me who read it to you!”

544. Tourist in Las Vegas: “Does it matter which road I take to get to the Strip?”

Las Vegas: “Not to me, it doesn’t!”

545. Tourist in Las Vegas: “Does Tropicana Road get me to the Strip?”

Resident: “I don’t know.”

Tourist: “Well, do you know how I can get to the Strip?”

Resident: “Nope.”

Tourist (irritated): “You sure don’t know much, do you?”

Resident: “Maybe not, but then, I’m not lost.”

546. Boring Guest: “My goodness, it must be terribly late. I forgot my watch and I’ve no idea how long we’ve been talking.”

Host: “Hold on, I have a calendar right here on my desk.”

547. Customer: “I want to complain about the turkey you sold me. It didn’t have any wishbone.”

Butcher: “Lady, our turkeys are so plump and contented they’ve got nothing to wish for.”

548. Diner: “Does the chef have calf brains?”

Waiter: “After what he just did to the crab legs, I don’t think he has the brain of a fly.”

549. Customer: “What in the world is this creature?”

Butcher: “That’s our thanksgiving special—a cross between a turkey and a porcupine. When you’re done eating, you can pick your teeth.”

550. What do you give a man who has everything? Penicillin!

551. Tom: “How was your camping trip?”

Jim: “A disaster.”

Tom: “What happened?”

Jim: “I was eating a lot of dehydrated food—then I got caught in a rainstorm and gained 75 pounds!”

552. Husband: “What’s for dinner?”

Wife: “Ham.”

Husband: “Good, I’m hungry enough to pig out.”

553. Diner: “Waiter, what’s this insect in my soup?”

Waiter: “How should I know? I’m just a waiter, not an entomologist.”

554. A man in love mistakes a pimple for a dimple.

555. Q: What do you call a man who always remembers a woman's birthday but forgets her age?

A: A smart man.

556. Q: What do you call a camel without a hump?

A: Humphrey.

557. Teenager: "I'll take 28 cheeseburgers to go, please."

Waiter: "Will that be all for you?"

Teenager: "Heck, no. I've got a friend waiting outside in the car."

558. Joey: "It is impossible to stay on this diet."

Tommy: "What's so hard about watching what you eat?"

Joey: "It's not watching what I eat that's hard—it's watching what my friends eat."

559. Army Doctor: "You're looking pale, Corporal, when did you eat last?"

Corporal: "1959, Sir."

Army Doctor: "What? How could you survive so long?"

Corporal: "Well, Sir, it's only 22:30 now."

560. I love being married. I was single for a long time, and I just got so sick of having the last word.

561. Customer: "I would like some coffee, please."

Waiter: "How do you want it?"

Customer: "In a cup."

562. Shopper: "It's pretty hard to pay $8 a pound for good steak."

Butcher: "If you paid $4 a pound it would be a lot tougher."

563. Tammy: "This is my secret recipe for the best meal in town."

Carol: "But you're burning everything to a crisp."

Tammy: "I know. When my husband comes home, he'll take me out to dinner."

564. Diner: "Waiter, there is a fly in my soup!"

Waiter: "It's possible. The cook used to be a tailor."

565. Diner: "Waiter, I can't find one clam in my clam chowder."

Waiter: "Oh, and I suppose you expect to find angels in your angel food cake."

566. Judy: “Have you seen Al? He’s been on a diet.”

Ivy: “How much weight has he lost?”

Judy: “Well, if he lost anymore, we would have to file a missing person report.”

567. Diner: “Waiter, where is my order of escargots. I have been waiting an hour for it.”

Waiter: “Sorry, sir, but you know how snails are.”

568. Diner: “Waiter, the music here is much too loud.”

Waiter: “Oh, do you think so?”

Diner: “Not only do I think so, my lobster just put his claws up over his head.”

569. Professor: “If I saw someone beating a donkey and stopped him from doing it, what virtue would I be showing?”

Voice from the class: “Brotherly love.”

570. Diner: “Do you have lobster tails?”

Waiter: “Certainly, Sir! Once upon a time, there was a big lobster...”

571. Shopper: “You’re supposed to be full-service grocery store, but I ordered a dozen oranges and you only delivered ten.”

Grocer: “That’s part of our great service, Ma’am. Two of the oranges were so bad we threw them out for you.”

572. Diner: “Waiter, this steak is rare. Didn’t you hear me say ‘well done?’”

Waiter: “Yes, Sir. And thank you, Sir.”

573. Auctioneer: “I’ve lost my wallet here with $500 in it. I’ll give $100 to the person who returns it.”

Voice from the audience: “I’ll give $200.”

574. Store clerk: “Mr. Smith did you kill any moths with those mothballs I sold you the other day?”

Mr. Smith: “No, I tried all day and couldn’t hit a single one.”

575. First teenager: “I’m so confused!”

Second teenager: “Why is that?”

First teenager: “Half of the grownups I know tell me to find myself, and the other half tell me to get lost!”

576. Penny: “My only sin is vanity. I look in the mirror each morning and think how beautiful I am.”

Bob: “That’s not a sin—that’s a mistake.”

577. Teacher: “Tommy, you must learn to write more clearly. I can hardly read your handwriting.”

Tommy: “Oh, sure—then you’ll probably complain about my spelling.”

578. Jamie: “Mom, how old is our car?”

Mom: “About seven years old, honey.”

Jamie: “And what kind of car is it?”

Mom: “A station wagon. Why all these questions about our car?”

Jamie: “My teacher told us to write our autobiography.”

579. Teacher: “Michelle you forgot the dot over the ‘i’.”

Michelle: “I didn’t forget it...it’s still in the pencil!”

580. Teacher: “If you had fifteen jellybeans and Tommy asked you for five, how many would you have left?”

Jenny: “Fifteen!”

581. Algebra teacher: “And in conclusion, class, we finally learned that X is equal to zero.”

Johnny: “Geez! All that work for nothing?”

582. Astronomer (peering in to a telescope): “It’s going to rain.”

Grad student (also looking into the telescope): “What leads you to that conclusion, Professor?”

Astronomer: “My corns ache.”

583. Teacher: “Melinda, why are you writing so fast?”

Melinda: “I want to finish this essay before my pen runs out of ink.”

584. One afternoon the boss’ wife met him at the office. As they were going down the elevator, it stopped, and a luscious blonde secretary got on, poked the boss in the ribs, and said, “Hello, cutie pie.”

The wife, without blinking, leaned over and said, “I’m Mrs. Pie.”

585. Teacher: “Susie, why didn’t you do your history assignment?”

Suzie: “I’d rather let the bygones be bygones.”

586. Teacher: “Class, tomorrow you’ll be taking an aptitude test.”

Student: “That’s not fair, sir. You didn’t teach aptitude this semester.”

587. Jimmy: “Mommy! I learned how to count—listen...one, two, three...”

Mom: “Good, go on!”

Jimmy: “You mean there’s more?”

588. Art teacher: “That is a nice well you painted. Is it finished?”

Tammy: “No, I still have to draw water.”

589. I was thinking about old age and decided that it is when you still have something on the ball, but you’re just too tired to bounce it.

590. Teacher: “Johnny, please use ‘I’ in a sentence.”

Johnny: “I is...”

Teacher: “Don’t say ‘I is.’ Say ‘I am.’”

Johnny: “Okay...I am the ninth letter of the alphabet.”

591. Jenny went to kindergarten for the first time. After an hour or two she began to cry.

“What’s wrong Jenny?” asked the teacher. “Are you homesick?”

“No,” said Jenny “I am here sick.”

592. I interviewed for a job and they said they were looking for a college degree or its equivalent. I said, “That’s good, I have nine years of high school.”

593. Teacher: “Kathy, can you give me an example of a coincidence?”

Kathy: “Yes...my mother and father were married on the same day!”

594. I thought about making a fitness movie for folks my age and calling it, “Pumping Rust.”

595. I used to believe in reincarnation, but that was in a previous life time.

596. Sunday School Teacher: “Some saints, like Joan of Arc, were burned at the stake.”

Jimmy: “Holy smoke!”

597. When I was a kid my parents were over-protective. Once I asked my dad if I could go outside to play in the snow. He told me, “Wait until it gets warmer.”

598. Teacher: “This class is so noisy I can’t hear myself speak.”

Student: "That's okay, teacher, you ain't missing much."

599. My friend from the old country told me he was getting married. I asked him, "Have you picked a date yet?"
"Wow," he exclaimed. "You can bring a date to your own wedding? What a wonderful country!"

600. Teacher: "Tina, spell 'Mississippi' please."
Tina: "The river or the state?"

601. Tommy: "I'm too tired to do my homework tonight."
Mom: "A little hard work never killed anyone."
Tommy: "But why should I risk being the first?"

602. Teacher: "All right now, class, we have been studying the great lakes. Can anyone tell me which one is the smallest body of water?"
Johnny: "Lake Inferior?"

603. Chemistry Teacher: "What is the formula for water?"
Jimmy: "H-I-J-K-L-M-N-O."
Chemistry Teacher: "What made you give a silly answer like that?"
Jimmy: "Well, you said it was H to O!"

604. Teacher: "Danny, why are you running?"

Danny: "I'm trying to prevent a fight."

Penny: "Between whom?"

Danny: "Between me and the bully who's chasing me!"

605. Teacher: "Please name the little stream that runs in to the Nile."

Michelle: "The Juvenile?"

606. Teacher: "Bobby, can you recite Lincoln's Gettysburg address?"

Bobby: "I didn't even know he moved."

607. Teacher: "Ritchie, name a product raised where the annual rainfall exceed forty inches."

Ritchie: "Umbrellas?"

608. Teacher: "Tammy, where is the ocean deepest?"

Tammy: "At the bottom."

609. Michelle: "They had to evacuate the school library."

Teacher: "Why?"

Michelle: "Someone found dynamite in the dictionary."

610. Remember—you can only live happily ever after one a day at the time.

611. French student: “Are you good in Spanish class?”

Spanish student: “Si.”

French student: “Oh well, we can’t all be ‘A’ students.”

612. Teacher: “Jimmy, what are the four main food groups?”

Jimmy: “Canned, Frozen, Instant and Lite.”

613. Teacher: “Ronny, what’s thirty-five minus eighteen?”

Ronny: “Seventeen, teacher.”

Teacher: “That’s very good.”

Ronny: “Good? It’s perfect.”

614. Teacher: “All right Simon, let’s hear you count to ten.”

Simon: “One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight, nine, ten.”

Teacher: “That’s fine, Simon. Can you go a little higher?”

Simon: “Jack, Queen, King.”

615. Benny: “Is it bad luck to have a black cat follow you?”

Jenny: “It depends.”

Benny: “On what?”

Jenny: “Whether you’re a man or a mouse.”

616. Reporter: "Why do you suppose aliens visit earth?"

Scientist: "Perhaps they're looking for other intelligent life form in the universe."

Reporter: "If that's so, why don't they make contact?"

Scientist: "Maybe they're still looking."

617. Businessman: "I own two cookie factories."

Farmer: "Big deal. I own thousands of food plants."

618. Salesgirl: "Which size dress would you like, Ma'am?"

Michelle: "I'd like size 7, but I'll take size 12."

619. James: "You really should hire Tom to represent you in this lawsuit."

Sally: "Tom? Why he graduated at the bottom of his law school class. I don't think he has ever won a case."

James: "True, but he will lose for you cheaper than anyone else in town..."

620. Tim: "How's the job?"

Bill: "I had to quit due to illness and fatigue."

Tim: "Oh, the boss was sick and tired of you, eh?"

621. Restaurant manager: “As a waiter, you are flop. You’ve already broken more dishes than your week’s salary. What am I going to do with you?”
Waiter: “I guess you’ll have to give me a raise.”

622. Pam: “The Glamourland Salon is advertising a wash, cut, and blow-dry for only twenty dollars.”
Bruce: “I’ve got a better deal than that at my salon. I offer a wash, cut, streak, perm, set, comb-out, and manicure for only fifteen dollars.”
Pam: “You must lose a lot of money.”
Bruce: “Oh, no. I haven’t had any customers yet!”

623. Diner: “Waiter, could you ask the chef if he has pigs’ feet?”
Waiter: “No thanks...I need my job.”

624. Reporter: “Sir, you’ve won the biggest lottery prize in history—over two hundred million dollars. How do you think this will change your life?”
Dishwasher: “Well, first thing, I’ll have a chauffer drive me to work everyday.”

625. Bill: “Are you busy at work these days?”
Tonia: “I am so busy that if anything bad happens today, I won’t get to worry about it for at least three weeks!”

626. Customer to elevator operator: “I guess your job has its ups and downs, hee, hee.”

Elevator operator: “I don’t mind the ups and downs. It’s the jerks I can’t stand.”

627. Tom had been a waiter all his life. After he died, his wife returned to his restaurant with a psychic to try contacting him in the spirit world. The psychic went into a trance and soon the wife thought she could sense her husband’s presence.

“Tom, Tom, is that you?” asked his wife.

“Yes it’s me,” said a faint voice.

“Come closer, Tom, I can hardly hear you,” she begged.

“Sorry,” came the reply, “that’s not my station.”

628. Larry: “Remember our old pal Jimmy? Man, is he rolling in dough!”

Benny: “What kind of business is he in?”

Larry: “He’s a baker.”

629. It was Sunday when the brain surgeon discovered a huge leak in his basement pipe. He rushed upstairs and called the plumber. “A-1 Plumbing? This is an emergency! Get over here quick!”

“Okay, but I charge extra for Sunday emergency service,” replied the plumber.

“Anything! Just come over and stop this leak!” cried the doctor.

The plumber arrived, took a tiny wrench out of his bag, and lightly tapped the pipe. The leak stopped. The plumber handed the doctor a bill for $800.

“What?” screamed the surgeon. “That’s unbelievable! Why, I’m a brain surgeon and even I don’t make $800 for 3 minutes’ work!”

“I know,” agreed the plumber. “Neither did I when I was a brain surgeon.”

630. Employee: “Sir, I just heard that Smith, the supervisor over at plant 16, died yesterday. I’d like you to consider letting me take his place.”

Boss: “Well, it’s okay with me if it’s okay with the undertaker.”

631. Ben: “I’ve hired a carpenter who hammers like lightening.”

Ken: “He’s that fast?”

Ben: “No, he never hits the same spot twice.”

632. Boss: “You’re always late.”

Employee: “I resent that. I get to work on time almost everyday.”

Boss: “Sure...almost on Monday, almost on Tuesday, almost on Wednesday...”

633. Census taker: “And how many people work in your factory, Sir?”

Factory owner: “I would say about one out of ten.”

634. Johnny: “Hey I just saved our company five thousand dollars a year!”

Tammy: “How?”

Johnny: “I asked for a raise and the boss said no.”

635. Customer: “This lumber has holes in it.”

Hardware clerk: “Those are knotholes.”

Customer: “Look, Buddy, if those are not holes, what are they?”

636. The foreman laughed when a tiny old man in a plaid shirt applied for a job as a lumberjack.

“So, you think you can be a lumberjack?” demanded the foreman. “What’s your experience?”

“I have felled a million trees single-handed,” said the lumberjack. “Ever heard of the Sahara Forest?”

“You mean the Sahara Desert,” corrected the foreman.

“Sure...now.”

637. Jenny: “Can you lend me ten dollars till payday?”

Annie: "I'm not sure. When's payday?"
Jenny: "How should I know? You're the one with a job."

638. Boss: "Did your supervisor tell you what to do?"
New employee: "Yes, Sir, he told me to wake up if I heard you coming."

639. Manager: "If you want to sell men's clothes you have to start at the bottom."
Job applicant: "Okay, I'll work in the sock department..."

640. Boss: "Why is everybody working so slow today?"
Employee: "We're just following your order."
Boss: "What? I never said that."
Employee: "Then who put up the 'Conserve Energy' sign?"

641. Ditch digger: "Hey, foreman. I don't have a shovel."
Foreman: "We ran out of shovels, but what are you complaining about? You're getting paid anyway."
Ditch digger: "Yeah, but all the other men have something to lean on."

642. Employer: "Your resume says you've worked about 35 years, but you say you are only 29 years old. How do you explain that?"

Applicant: “Lots of overtime?”

643. The godfather calls Tony in and asks, “Do you know what you get when you add two and two?”

Tony thinks for a moment and says. “Four, Godfather.”

The godfather pulls his gun out and shoots Tony dead.

Marcello runs in. “What happened?” he cries.

The godfather shakes his head and says, “Tony knew too much!”

644. I bet on a horse at ten-to-one. It didn’t come in until half-past two.

645. Mom: “Now Dear, don’t get upset. That toy is supposed to be indestructible.”

Dad: “It’s indestructible, all right—it broke the car!”

646. Dad: “Shhh! Son, I’m trying to read this map.”

Tom: “Okay, but look for the name of that last stop, because mom just got off there.”

647. Father: “I’ll tell you something about happiness. Do you know what it means to come home to two adorable, well mannered children who are thrilled at the sight of you, hang on your every word, and think you are the smartest, strongest, best guy in the whole world?”

Bachelor friend: “Well...”

Father: “I’ll tell you what it means. It means you’re in the wrong house!”

648. Bill: “My wife’s a mean cook.”

Jim: “Mine too. She always offers seconds.”

649. James: “How are you, Bob?”

Bob: “Just terrible. I’ve got this headache that won’t go away.”

James: “Well, whenever I feel bad, I go home to my wife. She massages my forehead and sings to me, and pretty soon I feel a lot better. You should try that.”

Bob: “Sounds great. Do you think your wife is at home now?”

650. Marriage counselor: “Now, what seems to be the problem?”

Husband: “She is always threatening me.”

Wife: “I do not.”

Husband: “Do so! Why, even during the wedding ceremony, when I said I do. You said, ‘You’d better!’”

651. Marriage counselor: “Please remember Mr. and Mrs. Smith, that there are always two sides to every story.”

Mrs. Smith. “Fine. I’ll tell you my side first, then I’ll tell you his.”

652. First husband: “I can never win an argument with my wife.”

Second husband: “I always have the last word.”

First husband: “How?”

Second husband: “I say, ‘Yes Dear.’”

653. Jason: “Poor Tommy has no sense of humor! The boss was telling jokes at the lunch today, and everybody was laughing and laughing! Tommy just sat there—he didn’t laugh once!

Kevin: “Tommy doesn’t have to laugh. He’s quitting tomorrow!”

654. Jerry: “What happened to that electrician who stuck his finger into the live outlet?”

Bill: “He was de-lighted.”

655. A man and a woman were getting to know each other at a Hollywood party. “Are you in the business?” asked the woman.

“Yes,” replied the man. “I’m a stunt coordinator. You know driving cars off of bridges, jumping from cliffs, falling out of airplanes...things like that.”

“Wow!” she responded. “How do you manage to stay alive?”

“Well, right now I wait tables in Santa Monica,” he answered.

656. Boss: “Have you ever worked as a chef before?”

Chef: “Oh, yes. I was at the CIA commissary in Iran for a few months, but it didn’t work out.”

Boss: “Why not?”

Chef: “I kept spilling the beans.”

657. My ex-girlfriend went to a self-help group for compulsive talkers—it’s called On-and-On-Anon.

658. Middle age is having the choice of two temptations and choosing the one that get you home sooner.

659. “Lady, this vacuum cleaner will cut your work in half!”
“Good I’ll take two of them!”

660. I have seen the truth and it makes no sense.

661. Everybody has a photographic memory. Some people are just out of film.

662. Sometimes I think I understand everything—then I regain consciousness.

663. Ham and eggs: a day's work for a chicken and a lifetime commitment for a pig.

664. What did the number 0 say to the number 8?
Nice belt.

665. So the male flea said to the female flea, "How about we go to see a show?"
The female flea said, "Sure. Shall we walk or take a dog there?"

666. If Mr. and Mrs. Bigger had a baby, who would be the biggest of them all?
The baby, because she is a little bigger.

667. What did one hotdog say to another?
Hi, Frank.

668. Why did the bicycles fall over?
Because they are two-tired.

669. Patient: “Doc, I’m suicidal. What should I do?”
Therapist “Pay in advance.”

670. A duck walked into a drugstore and said, “Give me some Chap Stick—and put it on my bill.”

671. An elephant and a giraffe came down to a watering hole for a drink. They saw a turtle fast sleep, basking in the sun. The elephant went over and kicked the turtle back to the other shore. “Boy, that was cruel,” said the giraffe. “Why did you do that?”
The elephant said, “That turtle bit a big chunk out of my trunk fifty years ago.”
“Fifty years ago? Wow what a great memory you have,” said the giraffe.
“Yes,” said the elephant, “I have turtle recall.”

672. “Jose, I-I think I swallowed a bone!”
“Are you choking, Man?”
“No, I’m serious.”

673. Back in the old days a Russian couple was standing in line at the market. They got into an argument over whether it was raining or sleeting. So they asked

Comrade Rudolph, a communist party officer who was walking by, if it was officially raining or sleeting. “Today it is officially raining, Comrades,” replied the official as he walked away. The wife was unconvinced. “I still think it’s sleeting,” Her husband shook his head. “Rudolph the Red knows rain, Dear.”

674. How many Zen masters does it take to change a light bulb?

Two. One to change it and one not to change it.

675. How many Microsoft programmers does it take to change a burned out light bulb?

None. They merely change the standard to darkness and offer an upgrade.

676. How many real men does it take to change a light bulb?

None. Real men aren’t afraid of the dark.

677. How many telemarketers does it take to change a light bulb?

Only one, but he has to do it while you’re eating dinner.

678. How many punk rockers does it take to change a light bulb?

Two. One to change it and the other to eat the old one.

679. Three friends died in an accident, and they went to an orientation in heaven. Saint Peter asks them, “When you are in your casket and friends and family are mourning you, what would you like to hear them say about you?”

“I would like to hear them say that I was a great doctor in my time and a great family man,” the first guy answered.

“I would like to hear that I was a wonderful husband and great school teacher who made a huge difference in our children of tomorrow,” the second guy said.

The third guy thought a minute. “I’d like to hear them say... ‘Look, he’s moving!’”

680. “I see there’s a funeral in town today.”

“Yeah.”

“Who died?”

“I’m not sure, but I think it’s the one in the coffin.”

681. A man walked into a restaurant and asked, “How do you prepare your chicken?”

“Nothing special,” the chef replied. “We just tell them they’re going to die.”

682. A curious guy died one day and found himself waiting in a long line to Hell. As he stood there, he noticed that some souls were allowed to march right through the gates of the burning pit. But every so often, instead of hurling a poor soul into the fire, Satan would toss a soul into a small pile on the side.

After seeing Satan do this several times the guy's curiosity got the best of him. "Excuse me, Prince of Darkness," he said. "I couldn't help wondering why you're tossing those people aside instead of flinging them into the fire of hell like all the others?"

"Ah," Satan said with a groan. "They're all from Seattle. They're too wet to burn yet."

683. A man goes to confession and says to the priest, "Father I am ninety years old, married, with six kids and fourteen grandkids. But last night I made love to two twenty-year-old girls. Both of them twice."

The priest says, "Well my son, when was the last time you were at confession?"

"Never, Father. I'm Jewish."

"So then, why are you telling me?" asked the confused priest.

"I'm telling everybody."

684. A man goes to his barber, all excited. He says, "I am going to Rome. I'm flying on Al-Italia and staying at the Rome Hilton, and I'm going to see the Pope."

The barber says “Ha! Al-Italia is a terrible airline, the Rome Hilton is a dump, and when you see the Pope, you’ll probably be standing in back of 20,000 people.” When the man comes back for his next appointment, his barber asks, “Well, how was it?”

“Great,” the man replies. “Al-Italia was a wonderful airline. The hotel was beautiful, and I got to meet the Pope.”

“You actually met the Pope?” asked the barber.

“Yes, I bent down and kissed his ring.”

“And what did the Pope say to you?” asked the barber.

“He said, ‘Where did you get that crummy haircut?’”

685. Why was Isaac twelve years old when God called Abraham to sacrifice his son?

Because if Isaac had been a teenager, it wouldn’t have been a sacrifice.

686. A guy enters a monastery. He has to take a vow of silence, but once a year he can write a word on the chalkboard in front of the head monk. The first year it’s tough not to talk, but Word Day comes around and the monk writes “The” on the chalkboard.

The second year is painful—it’s very difficult not to talk—but finally Word Day rolls around. The monk scratches “food” on the chalkboard.

The monk’s third year is excruciating. But he struggles through it. When Word Day rolls around again, he writes “stinks.”

The head monk looks at the chalkboard, shakes his head and says, “What’s with you? You’ve been here for three years and all you’ve done is complain!”

687. One morning the devil decided to go to church. He appeared suddenly, just before the offering, in a shower of flame and sparks and smoke. He ran up and down the aisle screaming, and the entire congregation ran except for one old man.

The devil leaned over the old man, shook his spear, let out a ferocious roar, and thundered, “I am Satan, Beelzebub, Prince of Darkness. I am evil incarnate. Do you not fear me?”

“Why should I?” the old man calmly replied. “I’ve been married to your sister for forty-eight years!”

688. Tommy enters the confessional and says, “Bless me Father, for I have sinned. I have been with a loose woman.”

The priest says, “Is that you, Tommy?”

“Yes, Father.”

“Who was the woman you were with?”

“I cannot tell you, Father, for I do not wish to ruin her reputation.”

“Was it Brenda?”

“No, Father.”

“Was it Fiona?”

“No, Father.”

“Was it Ann?”

“No, Father.”

“Very well, Tommy. Go say five Our Fathers and four Hail Marys.”

Tommy gets back to his pew. Tommy’s buddy Sean slides over and asks, “What happened?”

“I got five Our Fathers, four Hail Marys, and three good leads.”

689. If I am on a plane going at the speed of sound, will I still be able to hear my walkman?

690. Two men were talking about the immorality of the world today. The first man said, “I didn’t sleep with my wife before I was married. How about you?”

“I don’t know,” the other man answered. “What was her maiden name?”

691. A minister driving to New York was stopped in Connecticut for speeding. The state trooper smelled alcohol on the minister’s breath and he noticed an empty wine bottle on the floor of the car.

“Sir, have you been drinking?” asked the trooper.

“Just water,” the minister answered.

“Then why do I smell wine?” the sheriff asked suspiciously.

The minister looked down, spotted the wine bottle and exclaimed, “Good Lord, he’s done it again!”

692. A pastor skips services one Sunday to go bear hunting in the mountains. As he turns the corner along the path, he and a bear collide. The pastor stumbles backwards, slips off the trail, and begins tumbling down the mountain with the bear in hot pursuit.

Finally, the pastor crashes into a boulder, sending his rifle flying in one direction and breaking his legs. As the bear comes closer, the pastor cries out in desperation, “Lord, I repent for all I’ve done. Please make this bear a Christian.”

Just then the bear skids to a halt at the pastor’s feet, falls to its knees, clasps its paws together, and cries, “Lord, I do thank you for the food I am about to receive!”

693. A man was so proud of his fancy new Cadillac that he invited a priest, a minister, and a rabbi to come and bless it. The priest approached the auto, sprinkled holy water over it, and chanted in Latin. The minister invoked the name of the Almighty and led them all in silent prayer. The rabbi sang a psalm and cut off the end of the tailpipe.

694. Two bees ran into each other. One asked the other how things were going. The second bee said, “Really bad. There’s too much rain, no flowers or pollen—I’m practically starving.” The first bee said, “Here’s what you do. Just fly down five blocks, turn left and keep going until you see all the cars. There's a bar mitzvah going on, and there are all kinds of fresh flowers and fresh fruit."

The second bee flew away, and a few hours later the two bees ran into each other again.

"How did it go?" the first bee asked.

"Fine," said the second bee, "it was everything you said it would be."

"Uh, what's that thing on your head?" asked the first bee.

"That's my yarmulke," said the second bee. "I didn't want them to think I was a wasp."

695. A blind man walked into a bar with his seeing eye dog. He grabbed his dog by its hind legs and swung him around in a circle. The bartender said, "Hey Buddy, what are you doing?"

"Don't mind me," the blind man said, "I'm just looking around."

696. A brain goes into a bar and says to the bartender, "I'll have a pint, please."

The bartender says, "Sorry, I can't serve you. You're out of your head."

697. A guy walks into a bar and has a drink. He looks in his pocket and orders another drink; looks in his pocket and orders another drink; looks in his pocket and orders another drink.

Finally, the bartender has to ask. "What are you doing? What's in your pocket?"

“It’s a picture of my wife,” the guy says. “When she starts to look good to me, I know its time to go home!”

698. A man goes into a bar and says to the bartender, “Give me a drink before the trouble starts.” The bartender gives him a drink.” He drinks it down and says, “Give me another drink before the trouble starts.” He downs the second drink and says, “Give me another one before the trouble starts.”

The man downs drink number three. He motions the bartender once again. “Give me another drink before the trouble starts.”

Annoyed, the bartender finally asks, “Just when is this trouble going to start?”

The man says, “As soon as you realize that I don’t have any money.”

699. A pork chop goes into a bar and orders a drink.

The bartender says, “Sorry, you’re food, and we don’t serve food here.”

700. A northerner walks into a bar down south around Christmas time, and there’s a little nativity scene on the bar. The guy says, “That’s a nice nativity scene. But how come the three wise men are wearing firemen’s hats?” And the bartender says, “Well, it says right there in the Bible that the three wise men came from a fire...”

701. A guy goes into a bar, orders four shots of the most expensive thirty-year-old single-malt Scotch, and downs them one after the other.

The bartender says, “You look like you’re in a hurry.”

“You would be too if you had what I have,” says the guy.

“What have you got?” asks the bartender.

“Fifty cents!”

702. A man walks out of a bar and sees a bum panhandling on the corner. The bum says, “Mister, do you have a dollar you could spare me?”

The man thinks about the question for a bit. “If I give you a dollar, are you going to use it to buy liquor?”

“No,” the bum replies.

The man then asks the bum, “If I give you a dollar, are you going to use it for gambling?”

“No,” the bum answers.

“Then do you mind coming home with me? I want to show my wife what happens to someone who doesn’t drink or gamble.”

703. Waiter: “And how did you find your steak, Sir?”

Diner: “Well I just pushed aside a pea and there it was...”

704. A thief breaks into a bar and is heading right for the cash register when he hears a voice behind him say, “God is watching.”

He turns around, but he doesn’t see anything, so he goes back to the cash register. Again he hears, “God is watching.”

The thief turns around and sees a parrot over in the corner. He goes over to it and says, “What’s your name?”

“John the Baptist,” replies the bird.

“That’s a funny name for a parrot,” says the thief. “Who named you that?”

The parrot says, “My owner. The same guy who named the rottweiler ‘God.’”

705. A guy goes into a bar and orders three separate shot glasses of Irish whiskey. He drinks all three. He does this day after day after day and the bartender finally says, “You know, I can put all three of those shots into one glass for you.”

The guy says, “No, I prefer it this way. See I have two brothers over in Ireland, and I love them. This glass right here is for Finnian and this one here is for Fergus, and this one is for me. This way I feel like we’re all here together having a drink.”

One day, the guy comes in and says, “Give me two shots today.”

“What happened?” asks the bartender. “Did something happen to one of your brothers?”

“No, nothing like that,” the guy replies. “My brothers are okay. It’s just that I decided to quit drinking.”

706. A man walked into a bar, sat down, and ordered a beer. As he sipped the beer he heard a soothing voice say, “Nice tie.” Looking around he noticed that the bar was empty except for himself and the bartender at the end of the bar. A few sips later the voice said, “Beautiful shirt.” At this, the man called the bartender over. “Hey, I must be losing my mind,” he told him. “I keep hearing these voices saying nice things, and there’s not a soul in here but us.”

“It’s the peanuts,” answered the bartender.

“What?”

“It’s the peanuts—they’re complimentary.”

707. Three mice walked into a bar. The first mouse had a shot of whiskey and said, “When I see a mousetrap, I lie on my back and set it off with my foot. When the bar comes down, I catch it in my teeth, bench-press it twenty times to work up an appetite, and then make off with the cheese.”

The second mouse drank two shots of whiskey and said, “Yeah, well, when I see rat poison, I collect as much as I can, take it home, grind it up into a powder, and add it to my coffee each morning so I can get a good buzz going for the rest of the day.”

The third mouse drank three shots of whiskey and said, “I can’t stay long. I’ve got a date with the cat.”

708. A psychologist was conducting a study of 300 people and their sex lives. Some of the people he interviewed said they had sex almost every night, others said they had sex once a week, and others said they had sex once or twice a month.

One man said he had sex only once a year. The psychologist felt sorry for the man and said, “That’s really too bad.”

The man grinned up at him and said, “Yes, but tonight’s the night.”

709. A lady who lived in a small Minnesota town had two pet monkeys she was very fond of. One of them took sick and died. A couple of days later the other one died of a broken heart.

Wishing to keep them, the kindly lady took them to the taxidermist. The taxidermist asked if she would like them mounted. “Oh no,” she replied, “Just have them holding hands.”

710. The Queen was showing the Archbishop around the royal stables when one of the stallions broke wind so loudly it couldn’t be ignored. “Oh dear,” said the Queen, “how embarrassing! I’m frightfully sorry about that.”

“It’s quite understandable,” said the Archbishop, adding after a moment, “As a matter of fact, I thought it was the horse.”

711. A lawyer sent a note to a client: “Dear Jim: Thought I saw you on the street the other day. Crossed over to say hello, but it wasn’t you, so I crossed back. 1/10th of an hour: $25.

712. A lawyer had just undergone surgery. As he came out of the anesthesia, he said, “Why are all the blinds drawn, Doctor?”
“There’s a big fire across the street, and we didn’t want you to wake up and think the operation was a failure.”

713. A customer walked into the computer store. “I’m looking for a mystery adventure game with lots of graphics. You know, something really challenging.”
“Well,” replied the clerk, “have you tried Windows 2000?”

714. A man was flying in a hot air balloon and he realized he was lost. He reduced height and spotted a man down below. He lowered the balloon more and shouted, “Excuse me, can you tell me where I am?”
The man below said, “Yes, you’re in a hot air balloon, hovering thirty feet above this field.”
“You must work in information technology,” said the balloonist.
“I do,” replied the man. “How did you know?”

“Well,” said the balloonist, “everything you have told me is technically correct, but it’s of no practical use to anyone.”

The man below said, “Ah, you must be a corporate manager.”

“I am,” replied the balloonist, “how did you know?”

“Well, let’s see,” said the man, “you don’t know where you are or where you’re going, but you expect me to help. You have the same problem you had before we met, but now it’s my fault.”

715. A man wrote a letter to the IRS: “I have been unable to sleep knowing that I cheated on my income tax. I understated my taxable income and have enclosed a check for $150. If I still cannot sleep, I will send the rest.”

716. A kid swallowed a coin and it got stuck in his throat. His mother yelled for help. A man passing by hit him in the small of his back, and the coin came out.

“I don’t know how to thank you, Doctor!” the boy’s mother exclaimed.

“I’m not a doctor,” replied the man. “I’m from the IRS.”

717. “Doctor, there’s an invisible man in your waiting room.”

“Tell him I can’t see him now.”

718. “Doctor, you told me I have a month to live and then you sent me a bill for $1,000! I can’t pay that before the end of the month.”

“Okay, you have two months to live.”

719. Patient: “How much will it cost to have this tooth pulled?”
Dentist: “Ninety dollars.”

Patient: “Ninety dollars for just a few minutes’ work?”

Dentist: “I can do it slower if you like.”

720. “Doctor, I don’t know what’s wrong with me, but I hurt all over. If I touch my shoulder here, it hurts, and if I touch my leg here, it hurts, and if I touch my head here, it hurts, and if I touch my foot here, it hurts.”

“I believe you’ve broken your finger.”

721. “What’s wrong, Doctor? You look puzzled.”

“I can’t figure out exactly what’s wrong with you. I think it must be the result of heavy drinking.”

“Well then, I’ll just come back when you’re sober.”

722. The doctor called up his patient and said, “I have some bad news and some worse news. The bad news is that you have only twenty-four hours left to live.”

“That’s the bad news,” the patient cried, “What could possibly be worse than that?”

“I’ve been trying to reach you since yesterday.”

723. A ninety year old man went to his doctor and said, “Doctor, my eighteen-year-old wife is expecting a baby.” The doctor said, “Let me tell you a story. A man went hunting, but instead of his gun, he picked up an umbrella by mistake. And when a bear suddenly charged at him, he pointed his umbrella at the bear, shot and killed it on the spot.”

“Impossible!” the old man snorted. “Somebody else must have shot that bear.”

The doctor nodded. “My point exactly.”

724. My older brother always said, “Don’t watch over your money, watch over your health instead.” So one day while I was watching over my health, my older brother stole my money.

725. A painter got a call from the gallery that was showing his work. The gallery owner said, “I have good new and bad news. A fellow came in this morning and asked if your work is the kind that would increase in value after the artist’s death. I said yes, and he bought all fifteen paintings.”

“That’s great!” the artist said. “What’s the bad news?”

“The bad news is that he’s your doctor.”

726. “What happened to you, Mr. Peebles? You look awful.”

“Well, Doctor, you told me to take this medicine for three days and then skip a day, and all that skipping wore me out.”

727. Patient: “Say, Doctor? What was wrong with that nun who just came running out of your office? She looked terribly pale.”

Doctor: “Well, I examined her and told her she was pregnant.”

Patient: “Is she?”

Doctor: “No, but it sure cured her hiccups!”

728. Patient: “Nurse, I keep seeing spots in front of my eyes.”

Nurse: “Have you seen a doctor?”

Patient: “No, just spots.”

729. Woman: “Doctor, for the last eight months, my husband has thought that he’s a lawn mower.”

Doctor: “That’s terrible. Why didn’t you bring him in sooner?”

Woman: “Because the neighbor just returned him this morning.”

730. “Hello? Is this the state mental hospital?”

“Yes it is.”

“Can I speak to Mr. Russell in room twenty-seven?”

“One moment and I’ll connect you... (pause) I’m sorry, Mr. Russell is not answering.”

“Good, that means I must have escaped.”

Epilogue

Don't forget, once your journey of laughter has begun, you are going in the direction of bringing joy to yourselves and the people around you. Laughter is the most effortless way to raise your energy higher than the mass consciousness of this planet. You must learn to laugh. Then, and only then, will you create things that you desire in your life, instead of creating things that you don't want.

Please stay steadfast in joy and love, recognizing and acknowledging the blessings in your life each day. Become a collector of jokes, so you can always bring a smile to yourself and others. You are worthy of joy and happiness, and don't let anyone tell you otherwise, including your ego. They don't know like I do how worthy you are of love.

I realize that your ego might come up and say "Bijan has never met you, so how can he know or love you?" Well, let me share a most important truth with you: I might have not met you in person yet, but I know who you are, because I know who I am, and I know we are one. I also know who our Creator is – and I know the Creator creates nothing but the most profound and wonderful beings.

So stop worrying about the past and future, just live in the joy of the present, and allow the wonderful future to unfold out of your joyful present.

Belief and faith can move mountains. Have faith in your creator, and believe in your higher self, and you're home free.

I send my love to you, wishing you all the best this world has to offer you.

My Story

I came to this body many years ago from the country of Iran. I was about nineteen when I was driven to move to United States. At that time I found myself interested in many different paths that people were choosing to bring them peace, yet I never felt complete nor did I find the peace that we all are looking for. However I am grateful to all of them because each one was helping me to rise to a higher vibration. For many years, I was choosing the path of soul searching. I spent many hours meditating, reading spiritual books, going to many self help seminars and experiencing many out of body journeys. Yet, the result was not that significant until about twenty years ago when I started seeing energy around people. As I welcome it and opened myself to see it more many other doors opened to me in so many different dimensions. Most of these dimensions were very sudden and I had no clue that it would be taking me to so many different paths. I realized that when you are open to opportunities all doors will be open to you with no limits what so ever. I never thought that I would write a book that would be read all over the world or would be speaking in front of many, many new people without any fear or without ever having to do any preparation for it. Yet it all happened effortlessly and with a wonderful ease. Among other things I noticed that the more I was in the present time and stopped my mind from wandering, the more I saw everything as energy. Nowadays it has come to the point that when I get out of my meditation all I see is movements of energy everywhere. For me to notice an individual I must concentrate on looking at their form and physical body before I can see them. When I look at some one I see their physical body as an energy source that vibrates according to how much junk and negative belief systems they have been storing in it. I see whether every part of the body is in line with each other or fighting and out of balance with one another. In the eye of someone that does not see energy, this would look like someone being physically or mentally sick. The less junk stored in the physical body, the higher the vibration and healthier the physical body will be. I also see whether their seven main chakras are aliened or not. I can see their thoughts on top of their head. These are like heavy chains, one after another and they are constantly changing. Their belief systems are behind their head. These are all different color and forms. Their subconscious mind or Soul or record keeper is like a huge ball of information on their lower back which contains all their past experiences whether they really happened or were just imagined. Seeing and understanding this profound energy always gives me an edge over most other speakers because I never have to prepare for any of my speaking engagements. I just show up in front of the room and take a few minutes and check everyone's belief systems. Seeing and knowing their belief systems takes me to the understanding of their mental attitude and where they are coming from. At that time I tune in to their energy and start talking about the things they need to hear to open their eyes to their magnificence. This brings their energy high enough so they can become aware of their deep seeded negative belief systems so they can release them. That releasing opens them up to what they truly deserve, which is in the truth all the abundance that this universe has to offer them. Of course how much negative belief systems they are willing to release at that moment is completely their choice and not mine. I just bring their vibration high enough so they can become totally aware of them. It is important for everyone to understand that I don't perceive myself as a special being or different from anyone else and what I can see or do is something that everyone can see and do once they stay steadfast above the line. When you are constantly above the line, you are in the present time. This is where you can see things, opportunities, energies, and you can feel the peace that is available to you and everyone on this planet at every moment.

ALSO AVAILABLE FROM EFFORTLESS PROSPERITY

Books:

Absolutely Effortless Prosperity Books, I, II & III
Little Friends (for ages 2-7), Books I & II
My Guiding Spirit (for ages 8-12), Books I & II
Light From the Sky (for ages 13-18), Books I & II
Absolutely Effortless Laughter
Effortless Health

CDs:

It's Mine
Clearing to Manifest
Healing in the New Millennium
Getting In Touch With Your Higher Self

SEMINARS:

Mastering Effortless Prosperity
Mastering Effortless Relationships
Mastering Effortless Health
Joyous Week in Hawaii
Advanced Meditation & Healing In Sedona

For additional products, services and seminars, visit us at www.effortlessprosperity.com